DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-12, 15-23, and 25, drawn to a polypeptide having brain-localizing activity, wherein 10% or more of the polypeptide is comprised of basic amino acid residues (K or R), compositions comprising same, first recited method for producing the polypeptide, and first recited method of using the polypeptide.

Group II, claim(s) 13, drawn to a polynucleotide encoding the polypeptide of group I.

Group III, claim(s) 14, drawn to an antibody that binds to the polypeptide of group I.

Group IV, claim(s) 24, drawn to a second recited method for producing a protein molecule having brain-localizing activity.

Group V, claim(s) 26-30, drawn to a method of screening for a molecule having binding activity to the polypeptide of group I.

The inventions listed as Groups I-V do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The technical feature linking Groups I-V is that they all relate to a polypeptide having a brain-localizing activity. However, Pasqualini et al. (Nature, 1996; 380(6572):364-366, listed on IDS filed 02/07/2006) teaches various peptides having brain-localizing activity. For example the peptide CLSSRLDAC was found to be several-fold more effective in targeting the brain versus the kidney (see p. 364, 2nd column). It is also noted that the peptide is comprised of 10% or more of basic amino acid residues (K or R) – in this case, the peptide is 11% of the basic amino acid residue R. Further, the peptide comprises an amino acid motif as recited in claim 5, (e.g., CLSSRLDAC). Thus, the technical feature linking the inventions of Groups I-V does not constitute a special technical feature as defined by PCT Rule 13.2, as it does not define a contribution over the prior art.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

Art Unit: 1649

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
